

Learning Styles

I do believe that learning styles affect the ways that people learn because not every person is the same and just like anything else in the world people have preferences. Personally I am a visual learner. I like to see what needs to be done right in front of me because I feel it is the easiest way to be registered in my brain. Everyone is unique and needs to find what style best fits them in order to maximize their learning potential. One aspect of the article that I did not agree with was the fact that even though there is a notion of learning that feels to work best for you, it is not entirely true. There have been beliefs and studies that may back up that statement but I wonder what was the testing size of people that were studied and where were they from. Also the way of technology and techniques in which people learn are evolving and I feel this may have some impact on whether these studies are true or not. What works best for you is what works best for you.